

Rebellion Complex: A Historical Background

Jorge Lorredo, Jr.

6 ATENEO L.J. 152 (1956)

KEYWORD(S): REBELLION

SUBJECT(S): CRIMINAL LAW

The Article presents a discussion of the Huks (Hukbo Ng Bayan Laban Sa Mga Hapon or The People's Army of the Liberation Against the Japanese). It focuses on the different motivations behind the Huk crimes such as murders, rapine and plunders, and how the times dealt with such pretenses. The turning doctrine that was focused on by the Article is the decision of the Supreme Court stating that there is no such thing as rebellion complexed with common crimes, thereby granting bail to an accused.
