

Constitutionalism and the Narvasa Court

Joaquin G. Bernas, S.J.

43 ATENEO L.J. 325 (1999)

SUBJECT(S): POLITICAL LAW

KEYWORD(S): SUPREME COURT, LECTURE

This Lecture is part of a series of dedicated to Chief Justice Andres R. Narvasa. The esteemed constitutionalist, Joaquin G. Bernas, S.J., takes the time to comment on the more controversial decisions of the Supreme Court under the past Chief Justice. The Author humbly criticizes the decisions which are disagreeable, and acknowledges those that he believes are reasoned soundly and correct. Often tongue-in-cheek, the Author maintains a light mood throughout the Lecture and does not fail to recognize the Narvasa Court as a proud source of judicial enrichment.
